NSC Announces Name Change to Sabera

TOWSON, MD – NSC, Inc., a leading provider of Governance, Risk, and Compliance (GRC) solutions, announced today that the company is changing its name to Sabera. The new name draws upon the Spanish word for “to know,” in the context of knowing information or ideas. The name reinforces the concept of Sabera’s software as a tool to manage critical governance, risk, and compliance information across the enterprise.

“We are excited about our new Sabera brand, which we believe complements our growth strategy and our approach to helping enterprises save time, save money, and ensure compliance,” said Tim Satterfield, CEO of Sabera. “We look forward to building on our successes in numerous markets, including health care, financial services, and insurance, and continuing to deliver a holistic, dashboard-driven approach to helping clients untangle the compliance web.”

Sabera helps businesses respond efficiently to the impact of regulatory and internal compliance by harnessing these overwhelming demands into a single set of compliance goals. Specifically, Sabera's Compliance TotalView™ (CTV) allows business units across the enterprise to make real-time evaluations of management and regulatory operations. Managers are then able to eliminate ambiguity in compliance requirements, and pinpoint redundancies in compliance efforts and specific deficiencies in capability.

About Sabera

Sabera's Compliance TotalView™ (CTV) is a software solution for effectively and efficiently addressing an enterprise's wide range of compliance needs. By encompassing all factors that affect compliance – including regulations and best practices as well as internal strategic business needs and mitigations against threats - CTV ensures that organizations approach compliance in a holistic manner, addressing every facet of compliance including security, privacy, financial oversight, and both technical and operational controls.
